The accompanying three statements by Anarchist Federation workers and students set out how we are experiencing threats to provision and services generally and in the context in which the March 26th TUC demonstration passed it by creating islands of autonomy: it will fight back.

The accompanying three statements by Anarchist Federation workers and students set out how we are experiencing threats to provision and services generally and in the context in which the March 26th TUC demonstration passed it by creating islands of autonomy: it will fight back.

We are already seeing an increase in civil unrest and a shift from reformism to radicalisation in Britain. This will only increase as people's material circumstances decline. We have to turn defeat and isolation into power and collective action, to create a mass movement of resistance together.

The accompanying three statements by Anarchist Federation workers and students set out how we are experiencing threats to provision and services generally and in the context in which the March 26th TUC demonstration passed it by creating islands of autonomy: it will fight back.

We are already seeing an increase in civil unrest and a shift from reformism to radicalisation in Britain. This will only increase as people's material circumstances decline. We have to turn defeat and isolation into power and collective action, to create a mass movement of resistance together.

We should be:

1. Forming General Assemblies on the basis of neighbourhoods, communities, universities, industries and so on. The point is that they cut across divisions like neighbourhoods, communities, universities, industries and so on. The point is that they cut across divisions like

2. Using such assemblies to organise for a General Social Strike. The TUC isn't even able to organise a

3. Building alternatives to remain on the state for everything. Again, general assemblies are the best papers by other class-struggle anarchists.

The accompanying three statements by Anarchist Federation workers and students set out how we are experiencing threats to provision and services generally and in the context in which the March 26th TUC demonstration passed it by creating islands of autonomy: it will fight back.

We are already seeing an increase in civil unrest and a shift from reformism to radicalisation in Britain. This will only increase as people's material circumstances decline. We have to turn defeat and isolation into power and collective action, to create a mass movement of resistance together.

We should be:

1. Forming General Assemblies on the basis of neighbourhoods, communities, universities, industries and so on. The point is that they cut across divisions like

2. Using such assemblies to organise for a General Social Strike. The TUC isn't even able to organise a

3. Building alternatives to remain on the state for everything. Again, general assemblies are the best papers by other class-struggle anarchists.

The accompanying three statements by Anarchist Federation workers and students set out how we are experiencing threats to provision and services generally and in the context in which the March 26th TUC demonstration passed it by creating islands of autonomy: it will fight back.

We are already seeing an increase in civil unrest and a shift from reformism to radicalisation in Britain. This will only increase as people's material circumstances decline. We have to turn defeat and isolation into power and collective action, to create a mass movement of resistance together.

We should be:

1. Forming General Assemblies on the basis of neighbourhoods, communities, universities, industries and so on. The point is that they cut across divisions like

2. Using such assemblies to organise for a General Social Strike. The TUC isn't even able to organise a

3. Building alternatives to remain on the state for everything. Again, general assemblies are the best papers by other class-struggle anarchists.

The accompanying three statements by Anarchist Federation workers and students set out how we are experiencing threats to provision and services generally and in the context in which the March 26th TUC demonstration passed it by creating islands of autonomy: it will fight back.

We are already seeing an increase in civil unrest and a shift from reformism to radicalisation in Britain. This will only increase as people's material circumstances decline. We have to turn defeat and isolation into power and collective action, to create a mass movement of resistance together.

We should be:

1. Forming General Assemblies on the basis of neighbourhoods, communities, universities, industries and so on. The point is that they cut across divisions like

2. Using such assemblies to organise for a General Social Strike. The TUC isn't even able to organise a

3. Building alternatives to remain on the state for everything. Again, general assemblies are the best papers by other class-struggle anarchists.

The accompanying three statements by Anarchist Federation workers and students set out how we are experiencing threats to provision and services generally and in the context in which the March 26th TUC demonstration passed it by creating islands of autonomy: it will fight back.

We are already seeing an increase in civil unrest and a shift from reformism to radicalisation in Britain. This will only increase as people's material circumstances decline. We have to turn defeat and isolation into power and collective action, to create a mass movement of resistance together.

We should be:

1. Forming General Assemblies on the basis of neighbourhoods, communities, universities, industries and so on. The point is that they cut across divisions like

2. Using such assemblies to organise for a General Social Strike. The TUC isn't even able to organise a

3. Building alternatives to remain on the state for everything. Again, general assemblies are the best papers by other class-struggle anarchists.

The accompanying three statements by Anarchist Federation workers and students set out how we are experiencing threats to provision and services generally and in the context in which the March 26th TUC demonstration passed it by creating islands of autonomy: it will fight back.

We are already seeing an increase in civil unrest and a shift from reformism to radicalisation in Britain. This will only increase as people's material circumstances decline. We have to turn defeat and isolation into power and collective action, to create a mass movement of resistance together.

We should be:

1. Forming General Assemblies on the basis of neighbourhoods, communities, universities, industries and so on. The point is that they cut across divisions like

2. Using such assemblies to organise for a General Social Strike. The TUC isn't even able to organise a

3. Building alternatives to remain on the state for everything. Again, general assemblies are the best papers by other class-struggle anarchists.

The accompanying three statements by Anarchist Federation workers and students set out how we are experiencing threats to provision and services generally and in the context in which the March 26th TUC demonstration passed it by creating islands of autonomy: it will fight back.

We are already seeing an increase in civil unrest and a shift from reformism to radicalisation in Britain. This will only increase as people's material circumstances decline. We have to turn defeat and isolation into power and collective action, to create a mass movement of resistance together.
ALL IN THIS TOGETHER!
FOR A GENERAL SOCIAL STRIKE

* WALK OUTS
* OCCUPATIONS
* DIRECT DEMOCRACY
* WORKPLACE AND NEIGHBOURHOOD ASSEMBLIES

TOWARDS A SOCIETY OF SOCIAL SOLIDARITY AND HUMAN DIGNITY

WWW.AFED.ORG.UK