The present world chaos

If the present has always been hard to understand, it is especially a hard nut to crack just now. The world today is in a turmoil, and becomes more chaotic, social events are difficult to label definitely. It is also hard to determine the extent, depth and permanence of the social and political changes now going on.

In the Soviet Republic result in something which we may regard as an approach to Socialism or will it evolve into something new, some cross between Fascism and Capitalism threatening the very foundations of civilization. Under snow-capped peaks and mountain lakes. Of land that is mostly fertile and mostly idle. Millions of jobless men—

Idle, hungry, roofless, shabby men
With tea million women and children dependent upon them
Wandering, similarly over twenty-three hundred million acres
Of land that is mostly fertile and mostly idle

Millions of jobless men—

In an idle, vacant, ruined land broad enough
To house without difficulty every human being in the world
Rich enough to support without exhausting all the population of the world
Its own jeté people but poorly housed, fed and starvation people!

Millions of jobless men:

Clerks, professional artists, laborers, all the professions
Men with nothing to do, who can find no work,
While two million stunned children labor in mines and mills
And needy women must sell their sex for food

Millions of jobless men—

And millions of poorly paid men who get hardly enough to maintain their families
And millions of jobless workers
And millions of hungry children

The millions of unemployed men, and millions of business bankrupts
In twenty-three hundred million acres of inexhaustible riches not a thousandth part of which has been touched

Millions of jobless men—

And twenty million human beings content to live in bolthole
To live, work, speculate, invest, speculate and watch their "investments"

Millions of jobless men—

And ten million legislators, judges, doctors, solicitors, chemists, and policemen
With chalk, ink, legal process, penal code, prisons, handcuffs, dungeons, and gallows

To keep these three million jobless men from going on the idle, naked, fertile acres
And feeding themselves, their women and children!
Italy

According to information received by Giustina a million more than 500 political prisoners, who were living in the concentration camps, have been ordered to leave them. They are to be transferred to new camps in the interior of the country. This has already been announced as a means of preventing the formation of new fronts for armed struggle in the camps. The order has been confirmed by the Ministry of the Interior, which has announced that it will be carried out in the next few days. The new camps are to be located in the interior of the country, away from the coastal areas and the southern regions. The Ministry of the Interior has also announced that the prisoners will be housed in the camps in the order of their release from the concentration camps. The order has been widely welcomed by the prisoners and their relatives, who consider it a step towards improving their living conditions and reducing the risk of escape.

Spain

The workers of all Nations

A cowardly, brutal, and pitiless repression is actually taking place in Spain. The workers and the masses of the country are being subjected to a violent suppression that is aimed at putting an end to the struggle for freedom and democracy. The government is using all means at its disposal to crush the workers and the masses, and to maintain its grip on power.

In Madrid, the workers and the masses have been subjected to a violent repression. The government has used the armed forces and the police to suppress the workers' movement and to put an end to the struggle for freedom. The workers have been subjected to a violent repression, with the use of force, violence, and intimidation. The government has also used the courts to suppress the workers and the masses, with the use of unfair and biased trials.

In Catalonia, the workers and the masses have been subjected to a violent repression. The government has used the armed forces and the police to suppress the workers' movement and to put an end to the struggle for freedom. The workers have been subjected to a violent repression, with the use of force, violence, and intimidation. The government has also used the courts to suppress the workers and the masses, with the use of unfair and biased trials.

In Aragon, the workers and the masses have been subjected to a violent repression. The government has used the armed forces and the police to suppress the workers' movement and to put an end to the struggle for freedom. The workers have been subjected to a violent repression, with the use of force, violence, and intimidation. The government has also used the courts to suppress the workers and the masses, with the use of unfair and biased trials.

In the Basque Country, the workers and the masses have been subjected to a violent repression. The government has used the armed forces and the police to suppress the workers' movement and to put an end to the struggle for freedom. The workers have been subjected to a violent repression, with the use of force, violence, and intimidation. The government has also used the courts to suppress the workers and the masses, with the use of unfair and biased trials.

The workers of all Nations are united in their struggle for freedom and democracy. They are determined to put an end to the violent repression and to put an end to the struggle for freedom. The workers of all Nations are determined to put an end to the violent repression and to put an end to the struggle for freedom.
A French Editor's View of America

The “American” worker that is the American name for a laborer. He is a real American. The Frenchman, as a member of the capitalist system is a pure robot, or a pure business man. His psychology, his relations, or his capacity to make the human ideal, and money the scale of human value, the human true psychology as the terms as used by the communist party, because it is

There is a French-Swiss writer named Émile Zola whose novels are very popular in America. He is the author of several books, including "La Joie de Vivre," which deals with the life of a laborer in France. Zola's work is often seen as a critique of the capitalist system, and his novels have been translated and read widely in America. Zola's work often explores themes of class struggle, social injustice, and the human condition in the face of oppressive economic and social systems.

Zola's novels have been influential in shaping the perception of the American working class among French readers. The work of Zola, as interpreted through the eyes of a French editor, provides a unique perspective on the American labor movement and the struggles of working-class people in the United States. The editor's view offers a cultural and historical lens through which to understand the evolution of American labor rights and the fight for social justice.
Mussolini's War Upon East Africa

The blare of newsprint wherein Mussolini is marching on with his war preparations upon Ethiopia is no less alarming than the recent confession of the autocratic despot that there was nothing left for him but to embroil that unfortunate country in a war upon its own soil. Mussolini is implying his war upon Ethiopia is no less upon his own soil. The protests of Great Britain and France are now, as they have been throughout all of this, though reluctant at first, finally joined in with the protests of the world.

Mussolini's War Upon East Africa

One does not single government in the world has had the decency or honesty to raise a voice of protest against the activities of a dictatorial government in its own country. The rule of Mussolini in Ethiopia is so arrogant, so contemptuous of the protests of those who are so rich they might possess. Even the ultra-"anti-evolutionary," who sees the policy of being dead and dumb to what is being perpetrated upon them, condemns it, with the trite "safeguarding of the predatory fatherland." ... Nay?

Mussolini's War Upon East Africa

The anti-sedition laws which he has east the people of Italy is slowly falling in upon their own heads. The economic stabilization of each country is far from being won. War is known to all and is the common enemy of the whole world. The economic stabilization of each country is far from being won. Mussolini is using his war preparations against Ethiopia as an excuse to consolidate the economic and political domination of Italy.

The Merry Circus Goes On

At the fast toppling throne of Benito Mussolini, there are many elements who have shown any dissenting attitude regarding his policies. The economic stabilization of each country is far from being won.

Small as the voice of freedom may resound from such a minor circulated publication as MAN!—it has nevertheles re-echoed through many parts of this country, and is of great importance. It has brought to the attention of the American government's attempt to stifle its voice.

Some abuse and the attempted extradition of Vincent Ferrero and Dominick Sallitto to Fascist Italy has eventually brought to the surface the fact that the motives of both these men might think twice before carrying out its order of deportation, which, so reality nothing else but extradi- tion. In the city of San Francisco, California, wherefrom the two men are to arrive in Italy as political exiles, face fifteen years of punish- ment for such an action. What is this action? Why is it being done? That the principles of freedom of the press, basic to the establish- ment of the republic, are being violated by a government in the person of the Secretary of Labor in deporting these men, is an outrage to every man who believes in the principles of freedom of the press.

In San Francisco, California, the attorney for the two men, Mr. Charles Erlich, has succeeded in holding up deportation of the men. The American Civil Liberties Union is fighting the case, and twice Attorney Lewis Mallory has made a motion to prevent deportation of the two radicals.

The struggle must be carried on as wide an area as and on as intellectual level as possible. The whole world must be brought to the aid of Ferrero and Sallitto and to cease its campaign of intimidation against them. The Southern Worker, a Communist paper of Birmingham, has recommended the formation of work of the defense of Sallitto and Ferrero and the struggle against the new wave of reaction. Participating in the defense are, the Com- munist-Labor-Defense, the Central Labor Union—Ernest Besig, International, Lad. Gar. Workers Union, Tom Mooney Molders' Defense Committee, The American Civil Liberties Union, Tom Mooney Molders’ Defense Committee, The Non-Partisan Labor Defense, The Central Labor Union, The Non-Partisan Labor Defense, The Non-Partisan Labor Defense.

On Tuesday night, July 2, a protest meeting was held in Redmen's Hall, Friday, June 28, to protest the ordered deportation of Vincent Ferrero and Dominick Sallitto on the charge of having rented some space to the book of a manuscript publication in MAN, a monthly periodical of anarchist opinion. Both these men, born in Italy, entered this country legally and have lived in this country for a long time. Ferrero has lived in San Francisco for 30 years. Sallitto has a residence in California, wherefrom they are to arrive in Italy as political exiles.

The Central Labor Council refused to allow a speaker to read any announcement that the city of San Francisco was to be the scene of a protest meeting against Ferrero and Sallitto. The Central Labor Council's refusal was on the ground of refusing to stand on one platform with the followers of Leon Trotzky. The Non-Partisan Labor Defense deliberated an entire day, and finally refused to participate on the ground of refusing to stand on one platform with the followers of Leon Trotzky. Editor MAN!

We would like to comment on your article in the April number. You express your concern about the rise of criminal syndicalism in Sacramento.

We entirely agree with you in the nature of the sentence imposed: it is a crime against the entire working class. We oppose any efforts for increased anti-labor drives throughout the country.

Nor do we have any concern about the idea of utilizing a general strike, especially when, as you state, for the purpose of winning the release from prison of men and women who are fighting to form a union to fight for higher wages. Surely, in all these cases the victims are those whose lives are taken over by judges or juries.

The law, however, as we all know, permits such mass actions as strikes and the like, as long as it is used both as a single person defense against the persecutions of the state. The victims are the masses.

We call these ideas to your attention because the Sacramento convictions are soon to be appealed and we will have more than a single opportunity of a case of one of the convicted workers who refused the probation recommended by the judge. We need your help and followers to support our fight both in the field of public opinion and in court.

We shall make every effort to create a unified defense jointly with the International Labor Defense (which represents the majority of labor leaders in the U.S.) and the Communist party organizations. In this case, in the Ferro-Sollitt case which we see as a moral right to take to the streets in protest, there is a broad class interest which far outweighs the apparent interest of single labor movements. We urge you to support the non-Partisan Labor Defense Committee as far as possible, and to back the fight of all the eight prisoners.

The Trend Towards Fascism

You have given thought to another angle of your presentation which, may be distasteful to the reader. But fascism has its roots in modern social conditions, and is not at all a new concept. If the F. I. D. are permitted, hence that union functions by and large as integral parts of a single defense against the Fascist. You have described the Fascist as a predator of a different end by simply showing how close an alliance exists between the Fascist and the war and governments. Envious neighbors desiring to obtain the same results with the same tools.

Hollywood and the Social Question

To accuse Hollywood of tempering with truth and justice is perhaps a waste of time. When you consider the fact that the motion picture industry is one of the most powerful wielders of mass impressions in our age, it becomes clear that your division of labor is a matter which should be taken into account. The motion picture industry, as you know, is a big business. It has a big budget. It has a big audience. It has a big influence. It has a big potential for creating public opinion. But it cannot do it just by itself. It needs the help of other groups, such as the government, the churches, the schools, and the media. It needs the cooperation of all of these groups if it is to be effective.

Notes From Chicory Corners

The month of June has been one of the most important events in my life. I have spent almost forty years of my life in the Anarchist movement. My parents, my husband, my children, my friends have all been involved in this movement. I have seen the rise and fall of various groups, the rise and fall of various leaders. I have seen the good and the bad of the movement. I have seen the possibilities and the limitations. I have seen the successes and the failures.

I have been involved in the movement since I was a young man. I have been involved in the movement all my life. I have seen the movement grow and shrink. I have seen the movement rise and fall. I have seen the movement change and remain the same. I have seen the movement become more and less organized. I have seen the movement become more and less effective.

I have been a part of the movement all my life. I have been involved in the movement all my life. I have seen the movement grow and shrink. I have seen the movement rise and fall. The Passion of Sacco And Vanzetti

A man in a park calling to battle,
Adjusts lambent robes,
Justice, the whore goddess,
Mankind shall yet break the mold,
A warm red flood crumbling the gates.

Nicola, in Italy,
Steadily, steadily chiseling the wall.
Hearing deep, gathering murmurs
As men who sow seed in fallow acres,
To the commune of brothers,
Immortality is the flame from charred bodies,
"In half a hundred lands
In the spattered teeth of rebel slaves.
"Serfs harnessed to forge and lathe,
For silken kisses and arrant eyes;
A Comrade's veins were torn from his arms
For the commune of brothers.

MAKHNOS ROLE IN THE REVOLUTION OF 1917

The “Tventy-5” has already given, in its issue of August 2nd, the notice of the premature death of the renowned anarchist of Russia, Nikolai Fedorenko, who was shot on July 27th, and who was cremated in the crematory of Pervomayskoe Cemetery in the presence of the leaders of the most prominent socialist parties of Russia. It is an omen to this front –read anarchist—not even a line at the bottom of the sixth page for the announce- ment of the death of Fedorenko, who, as it is known, was of the “Right” group. At this moment Makhno was most interesting and no congestion of telegrams to send an organ of the “Right” group. The popular “Radok” played in the Russian Revolution, energy and fighting spirit of Fedorenko, and the magnificence of his ephemeral allied boltivshskus, who bestowed upon the country the name of “Radok” and who are the whites, assured, future historians will give Makhno the place which belongs to him among the authors of the revolution.

Nestor Franchivich Makhno was born of a family of peasants in the district of Tauricle, in 1889. A peasant worker, farmer, he educated himself as best he could and at the age of about seventeen, initiated to the ideas of Anarchism, he found his own way. This was in 1905, the moment in which the first outburst of the revolutionary wave unchained itself and in which the plague of the burning castles glittered over the countryside. But the reaction, which followed the events of 1905, Makhno, ar- rested for acts of terrorism, went to prison.

Freed by the February Revolution, he returns to his native Ukraine, and he becomes the president of the Soviet of Donetch-Pole. As a peasant he works in an agricul- tural “community.” But in 1919 the German forces bring up the German anti-revolutionary movement. The Whites, the land employers and the bands of his partners, mobilize against him. Under cover in the woods, supported and reinforced by the peasants, he continues his fight against the Whites, the land employers and the bands of his partners. He hides his tactics. Under cover in the woods, supported and reinforced by the peasants, he continues his fight against the Whites, the land employers and the bands of his partners.

Actually, the postal authorities are too practical in their defense of the community. The organs of communication are vital sectors in any social struggle. Realizing this fact, Herr Goering suppressed the New Masses in Chicago, The Southern Worker in Atlanta, The New Age in Boston, The Nation in New York, The New Republic in New York and The New Day in Philadelphia. The New Masses, the Southern Worker, the New Age, The Nation, The New Republic and The New Day were all independent publications plus savage pogroms upon working- class Jews. Hence, it is not strange that the New Masses is given a place in the list of the 1924. The Dominants and the doctors are still in the fight to protect the community.
